

Dictatorship

Definition:

"The form of government in which a single person or a small group exercises absolute power is known as dictatorship."

Explanation:

The form of government in which a single person or a small group exercises absolute power is known as dictatorship. The origin of dictatorship lies in ancient time. Dictatorship is one man show in its nature. Dictatorship is based upon fear and oppression. The main object of dictatorship is to rule only.

Origin:

The origin of dictatorship lies in ancient time.

Nature:

Dictatorship is one man show in its nature.

Bases:

Dictatorship is based upon fear and oppression.

Object:

The main object of dictatorship is to rule only.

Characteristics of Dictatorship:

These are few characteristics of dictatorship are these.

- 1- Absence of Liberty
- 2- Concentration of powers
- 3- One party rule
- 4- Sanctity of state
- 5- Myth of Nationalism.

Advantages of Dictatorship:

These are few advantages of dictatorship are these.

- 1- Political stability
- 2- Competent administration
- 3- Economic development
- 4- Increase in military potential

1- Political stability:

Political stability is one of the important advantages of dictatorship. In democracy the decision making usually slow which results in political instability. While, In dictatorship the decision making very quick which results in politically stabl.

We can say,

Dictatorship brings political stability.

2- Competent administration:

Competent administration is one of the important advantages of dictatorship. In dictatorship the services of ablest and talented persons are utilized which results in competent administration. While, In democracy merit is often compromised due to political influence.

We can say:

Dictatorship brings competent administration.

3 → Economic development:

Economic development is one of the important advantages of dictatorship. In democracy the mega economic project a usually liger on due to lack of political concenses.

While, In dictatorship mega economic project are introduce which results in political development.

We can say,

Dictatorship brings economic development.

6.

4 → Increase in military potential:

Increase in military potential is one of important advantages of dictatorship.

In dictatorship a dictator gives special intention to increase the military potential of the country.

A major portion of annual budget is allocated for this purpose.

We can say;

Dictatorship brings increase in military potential.

• Disadvantages of dictatorship:

There are few disadvantages of dictatorship there.

- 1- Absence of peaceful transfer of power.
- 2- Operation
- 3- Exploitation
- 4- Absence of freedom
- 5- Absence of liberty
- 6- Moral decline
- 7- Rules of privileged class
- 8- Absence of fundamental rights

1- Absence of peaceful transfer of power:

Absence of peaceful transfer of power is one of the disadvantages of dictatorship. In democracy the change of governmental powers is done through election.

While,

In dictatorship the dictator acquires powers through military coup.

We can say,

Dictatorship is a government of a gun man group of people.

2- Operation:

Operation is one of the disadvantages of dictatorship. In dictatorship the government is run through coercion and oppression. That's why the fundamental rights and liberty of people remain insecure in dictatorship.

3- Exploitation: Jasim

Exploitation is one of the disadvantages of dictatorship. In dictatorship a certain group of people enjoy privileges but generally able and talented people are exploited.

4. Rule of privileged class:

Rule of privileged class is one of the disadvantages of dictatorship. In dictatorship a dictator makes a group to strengthen his governmental powers so dictatorship is a rule of privilege powers.

5- Moral decline:

Moral decline is one of the disadvantages of dictatorship. The government belongs to power. There is no right but might is the sole right. That's why the community suffers moral decline.
